ZAGREB ZOO

Zoological Garden of Zagreb is located in the over 200 year-old Maksimir Park. It is located almost in the centre of town and today, it is home to about 370 species of animals. Zagreb Zoo have long history and tradition that preserve old buildings and cherish their heritage by building a bridge between the past and the present. The extent that the visitors recognize the value and activities we continuously promote is demonstrated by the fact that the Zoo is one of the most visited tourist sites in Croatia.

- The Croatian currency is the Kuna (KN) (not the Euro!), which is divided into 100 lipas.
- Are Euros accepted in Croatia?

Euro is NOT an official currency and NO business/individual is required to accept them as payment. You may well find that prices in some accommodation places, restaurants and elsewhere quoted in Euros. This is purely because so many visitors to Croatia are from Euro-using countries, and some business owners display Euro prices to make it easier for them.

- Currencies to take with you and changing money in Croatia

We recommend that take Euros as a currency to Croatia – it is easy to exchange for Kunas in the country.
